

"TEACH YOUR BABES TO CRY BY NOTE"

Mrs. Amelia Weed Holbrook Tells Professional Women's League How to Solve Home Problems.

NEW YORK, June 7.—"No mother should be weak enough to allow her baby to scream off key. She should carry a tuning fork, and when the child is about to begin a prolonged howl give him the proper notes."

This is the recipe for domestic harmony which Mrs. Amelia Weed Holbrook gave the Professional Women's League. She said that if you have a number of children, you have only to teach them to cry in unison and there you are. Baby's howls made musical will be the watchword of the future. For, says Mrs. Holbrook, the reign of the new woman is ushered in by the new baby. The power of music, however, does not end there. In showing its abilities to cure all the ills that flesh is heir to, Mrs. Holbrook cited the recent experiments with the mosquito net in recording his overthrew as he fell into poetry.

Made in Shakespeare's time had charms. To soothe the baby's breast. But now it is used with force and arms. To stay the baby's pen.

"The hearing apparatus of the little ruminant," she said, speaking of the mosquito net, "consists of a series of fine tubes, which are attached to the pitch of certain musical notes. When these notes are sounded, the entire nerve system of the insect is affected, and when raised to a great number of vibrations per second the mosquito becomes paralyzed, so to speak."

The proposition of the scientists is to set up a musical apparatus, she continued, "that will vibrate at the proper pitch to attract the mosquito, surround it with a wire screen charged with electricity, so that as they plunge against the wire to get near it they may be electrocuted. The mosquitoes may take this as a friendly warning."

"Another plot for the massacre of the innocents (another reference to mosquitoes) is the musical mouse trap. While mice are sensitive to music, they are not devoted to Wagner and the trap which is to lure them to destruction will have instead of the cheese bait hidden under the false bottom a small automatic music box which will discourse popular airs. When the mouse wanders in to discover the source of the music, he will be made prisoner to the tune of 'The Good Old Summer Time' or 'There'll Be a Hot Time'."

The speaker related that the eubs of a Chicago house were lulled to rest with "Sleep, My Pretty One," but the air of "The Irish Washerwoman" brought on an attack of ecstasy in which they rolled over each other. The German stork, which has a corner on the baby market, also lapsed into wild antics, and the scorpion and lizard beat time with their tongues.

MURDER CHARGE FOR DYING HUSBAND

Coroner's Jury Finds That John Robinson Killed His Wife and Brother-in-Law.

MAUMEE, Ill., June 7.—John Robinson, who yesterday shot and killed his wife and her brother-in-law, Shep Atterberry, at his home, is thought to be dying. He is closely guarded by deputy sheriffs at his mother's home, and should he recover he will be arrested on a double charge of murder in the first degree on the findings of the coroner's jury.

What took place in the Robinson home before the shooting is not known positively, and Robinson, while yet able to talk, would say nothing.

One report is that Robinson and his wife quarreled in Atterberry's presence, and Robinson resented the latter's attempt to make peace.

After Atterberry had been drawn into the quarrel, Robinson became violent and shot Atterberry and his wife.

Robinson ran three blocks before he fell, but did not explain why Robinson had shot the mortally wounded Atterberry. He was attracted by the shots reached the house.

STRICT THEATER ORDINANCE.
New York Playhouse Men Declare Regulations a Prohibition.

NEW YORK, June 7.—An ordinance regulating the construction of new theaters has been signed by Mayor McClelland. Its formulation was resultant from the Iroquois theater horror, and under the new conditions, erecting new playhouses here will be an expensive operation.

No changes are provided for theaters already in existence, but hereafter they will be practically necessary to have a 14-foot box which will discourse popular airs. When the mouse wanders in to discover the source of the music, he will be made prisoner to the tune of 'The Good Old Summer Time' or 'There'll Be a Hot Time'."

The speaker related that the eubs of a Chicago house were lulled to rest with "Sleep, My Pretty One," but the air of "The Irish Washerwoman" brought on an attack of ecstasy in which they rolled over each other. BULL PEN" AND VICTOR CONTAINS 200 SUSPECTS took the trail of the fiend who exploded the dynamite independence by pulling a wire attached to a revolver or some other instrument, and thereby murdered at least 15 workmen, and followed it from Bull Pen to the Colorado Springs wagon road. Detective Robert Sterling of the Mine Owners' Association declared he was convinced that he knew who caused the explosion.

Sheriff Henry M. Robertson resigned in favor of Sheriff Bell under compulsion. He was formerly taken to the headquarters of the Mine Owners' Association and his resignation was demanded. At first he refused to resign, but when finally told of the rope was thrown at his feet he weakened and signed the resignation which had been prepared for him. The first act of Sheriff Bell was to take away the star of Under Sheriff J. Knox Burton. He then appointed 25 deputies, to which force large additions have since been made, and later, he disbanded the union officers of the mine appointed by City Marshal Michael O'Connell.

Meantime O'Connell had visited the mine owners' headquarters, in which about 30 armed men were assembled, and demanded that they surrender their arms to him. He was forcibly ejected and after being deposited from office by Mayor French, he was placed under arrest.

One of the men dynamited yesterday died last night and two died today. This makes the total death list from the dynamiting outrages and the strike 17.

Union Leader Blames the Citizens' Alliance.
Vice-President Williams of the Western Federation of Miners, who is acting in the capacity of president during Mr. May's imprisonment in the military bull pen at Telluride, said today:

"Troubles at Cripple Creek—the riot and disturbances there—are simply an attempt to disrupt the union and bring the strike to a close."

"It is my candid opinion that the Citizens' Alliance, an organization that is and always has been bitterly hostile to the union, has been at the bottom of this attempt to break the strike by a display of violence."

"The opinion among the miners is that the Citizens' Alliance is afraid that the committee that has just returned from Cripple Creek may have produced good results by its visit."

"It is to break the strike and discredit the unions that the disturbances of yesterday were planned. The Citizens' Alliance contains references to the mass meeting that was in progress when the governor's troops were sent up. There are few soldiers in the district. The Citizens' Alliance, absolutely unfair, will resort to anything. Since the riot did not occur during the presence of the military, who are responsible to someone besides themselves."

"Our organization is founded on the principles of truth and justice, and its members are as much interested in other persons in suppressing lawlessness. Whoever committed crime at Cripple Creek must be found and punished, and we want to put ourselves on record as helping to bring that about."

At a meeting of the Mine Owners' Association of the district, last night, the Findley outrage was discussed and the deepest feeling of indignation expressed, and it was the unanimous feeling that under no circumstances should the murderers escape. Many of the members pledged their individual support to run down and punish the conspirators, and a large reward will be offered by the association by the county commissioners and different mine managements will offer individual rewards also.

The local committee of the Western Federation of Miners has authorized the press to say that they deplore the Findley murder. The following is a statement given out by them today:

"No men who deserve to live would or could approve the awful deed. The fiends who planned and executed the devilish crime should be detected and punished to the full extent of the law. The crime must be unearthened and the perpetrators punished. The committee and all local members local who are ready and willing to assist in uncovering the guilty ones and will use every endeavor to assist the authorities in their efforts, and we herewith tender our services to all our members. We will also join in offering a suitable reward for the arrest and conviction of the guilty persons.—District Union No. 1, W. F. of M."

At midnight last night a special train of five coaches, drawn by a heavy engine, pulled in on the Florence & Cripple Creek siding at Victor, near the temporary bull pen and the excitement was suddenly raised to fever heat.

It was rumored, and apparently with some foundation, that 12 or 15 of the recognized leaders of the union were to be turned over to Sheriff Bell and that all other prisoners were to be deported from the camp. As soon as the train backed onto the siding, Secretary C. C. Hamilton of the Mill Owners' Association; Sheriff Bell, Mayor French and Capt. Moore went into conference at the military headquarters. It was not needed at that time. When this information went through those who had been expecting trouble gave signs of relief and many went to their homes.

The Definition of Pleasure.
An agreeable sensation resulting from a normal action of the physical organs; a form of feeling characterized by physical comfort or satisfaction. That may be all right, but a more understandable definition would be, "The agreeable sensation that accompanies the first breakfast of pillbury's vites, the pure wheat cereal food." Everybody understands that.

"WALTZ KING" IS CONVICTED

Court Urges O'Donnell Jury to Disregard Special Rules Laid Down By Excise Commissioner.

Michael O'Donnell, "waltz king" and former proprietor of the Oriental dance hall and saloon, 232 Olive street, was found guilty Monday afternoon of violating the Sunday closing law by a jury in the court of criminal correction and fined $50 and costs. The conviction is the first that has been secured in several years on such a charge.

O'Donnell's place was raided recently and several live and women were arrested. Later his license was revoked.

Moore advised that body to disregard the excise commissioner's instructions to saloonkeepers to close their places from 1 o'clock until 7 o'clock Sunday morning, and take into consideration the statute, which states that all saloons shall close Sunday.

Bears Washington's Signature.
Miss Florence Maynard, chief of the department of history at the Fair, has secured a document defining the rights of the Kaskaskia Indians, dated May 7, 1836, and bearing the signatures of George Washington and Thomas Jefferson.

Gate Machines Now Ready.
World's Fair Will Begin to Install Automatic Devices Within a Few Days.

Morris B. Gregg, director of admissions, stated Tuesday that within a week 75 automatic machines would take the place of many gates at the Fair admission gates, and that those of the gatesmen who were retained would be employed as money changers and on pass gates.

The plan for automatic slot machines at the gates was adopted long before the opening of the Fair, but up to the present has not been put in practice. Mr. Gregg says that the machines are now ready to be installed, and their installation will begin within a few days.

The machines will let out two tickets for 50-cent and 25-cent admissions. They will be worked in the usual slot machine way, the turnstile lever yielding for the passage of one person when the proper coin is dropped in the slot.

LONE DESPERADO ROBS 5 AT ONCE

Lines Up Saloonkeeper Boudinet and Four Customers Against the Wall.

Four thirsty customers were in the act of raising foaming steins to their lips at the bar in Boudinet's saloon, Twenty-second street and Clark avenue, about 10 o'clock Monday night when a masked highwayman entered the place, drew a revolver and shouted, "Hold up your hands, all of you!" The steins dropped to the bar with a crash and the hands of the quartet went up.

"Might have let us finish our beer," growled one.

"Shut up and line up," said the robber tersely, pointing with the muzzle of his revolver to the wall of the saloon.

The four understood the gesture and obeyed. Boudinet was then forced to come from behind the bar and join his customers in trying to touch the ceiling with his fingers.

While with one hand the lone desperado held a revolver over the five men, the other hand he used to ring up "No sale" on the cash register and open the drawer.

He then took out $25, and, after satisfying himself no more money was to be found behind the bar, poured out two drinks of the best liquor in the place.

"I usually drink cocktails," he explained affably to his five victims, "but they take two hands and one of mine's busy."

Then he came from behind the bar, went through the pockets of the five men, and secured a gold watch and $50 in money.

At the end of his work, looking at the $25 in nickels and dimes he had secured, he backed out of the front door, locked it, and disappeared.

When Boudinet succeeded in opening the door the robber was not to be seen.

The four men robbed were Oscar Frederichs, 317 South Twenty-second street; Harry Dill, 226 Adams street; Thomas McQuinn, 218 Clark avenue; Charles O'Malley, 212 South Twenty-second street.

BOTH JAWS SHOT AWAY.
Still a Successful Business Man.

A man who had both jaws shot away had trouble eating ordinary food but found a food-drink that supplies the nutriment needed. He says:

"I have been an invalid since the siege of Vicksburg, in 1869, where I was wounded by a Minnie ball passing through my head and causing the entire loss of my jaws. I was a drummer boy and at the time was leading a skirmish line, carrying a gun. Since that time I have been awarded the medal of honor from the Congress of the United States for gallantry on the field."

"The consequences of my wound were dyspepsia in its most aggravated form and I finally proved ordinary coffee was very hard on my stomach, so I tried Postum and got better. Then I tried common coffee again and got worse. I did this several times and finally as Postum helped me every time I continued to use it, and how often I think that if the Government had issued Postum to us in the Army how much better it would have been for the soldier boys than coffee."

"Coffee constipates me and Postum does not; coffee makes me spit up my food, Postum does not; coffee keeps me awake nights, Postum does not. There is no doubt coffee is too much of a stimulant for most people and is the cause of nearly all the constipation."

"This is my experience and you are at liberty to use my name." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

JUDGE GRAY IS STRONGLY FOR PARKER

Tells His Delaware Friends That He Will Not Allow Himself to Be Placed in the Position of a Candidate.

KENTUCKY IS SAFE FOR NEW YORK'S FAVORITE SON

Some Who Oppose Instructions Favor
the Justice—Mississippi Delegation
Will Be Decidedly Parker, Whether Convention Instructs or Not.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WILMINGTON, Del., June 7.—It is now practically certain that the Democratic state convention which meets today will not instruct its delegates to the national convention for any candidate.

Judge Gray has made it known to his friends that he does not desire instructions. Those who approached the judge found that he was vigorously opposed to having his name used. They learned also that he was strongly in favor of the nomination of Judge Parker.

Judge Gray believes that the prospects of the Democratic party are very bright this year. He thinks that the great independent vote which elected McKinley is now the decisive power in American politics, and he is convinced that it is swinging to the Democratic side. Although the judge declines to discuss politics in public, in private conversation with friends he makes no secret of his opinion that failure to nominate Judge Parker at St. Louis would be disastrous to the party.

Judge Gray's friends have been informed in plain language that he is not a candidate, and that, however pleasing it may be to have his name mentioned in connection with the presidency, he will not allow any one to place him in the position of a candidate. He earnestly desires to see Judge Parker head the Democratic ticket.

KENTUCKY STANDS READY TO INSTRUCT FOR PARKER

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 7.—Local quarrels have been dropped in Kentucky, and the fight hinges on whether or not the state's delegation to the national convention shall be instructed for Judge Parker. The leaders are divided, owing to selfish considerations.

The delegates chosen last Saturday to the Democratic state convention are for Judge Parker by a big majority. This fact is conceded by Senator Joe Blackburn, who is leading the fight for no instruction. He admits that he himself is favorably disposed towards Parker, but he regards it as advisable for the delegates to be left free to act on the situation as they find it when they reach St. Louis.

On the other hand, Gov. Beckham and others of great influence favor a delegation instructed to vote for Parker straight through the convention. They can carry their point if they desire, and remain only for them to determine whether they want instructions in face of Senator Blackburn's opposition.

Senator James B. McCreery is also disposed to prefer an instructed delegation, though he is an avowed Parker man. The two senators led the faction of the party which would so overwhelmingly defeated Saturday. They gave out a statement today conceding sentiment to be for Parker, and in any event, the instructions look, however, as though the instructions will be given.

Gov. Beckham has confided to a friend that he will insist on instructions, and if so, he will have no trouble in getting the instruction adopted. At least three-fourths of the delegates are known to be for Parker, and in any event, Parker can carry the Kentucky delegation.

The platform will ignore the Kansas City platform, and will be confined to present issues, mainly the arbitrary acts of the administration and failure to carry out obligations in other respects.

BRYAN'S FRIENDS TO MEET
IN NEW YORK ON JUNE 18

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 7.—A call signed by 300 Bryan and Tammany men from several cities in New York was sent broadcast over the state yesterday calling a state convention of Democrats at Cooper Union June 18 to fight for Parker.

The object of the convention is to send a protesting delegation to St. Louis to appear before that body, denounce the leadership of David B. Hill and declare that Parker cannot carry this state.

Two men in charge of the meeting took pains to declare that they were not for Hearst, and hereafter would have nothing to do with his candidacy.

The call for the convention says: "We warn the national Democracy that a platform who has no principle or platform of platitudes cannot carry the state of New York and does not deserve the support of the nation and common sense require that the national Democratic platform shall express the purpose of the party clearly and so define its policy with reference to present issues that it cannot be misunderstood. Our purpose is solely to protest against the action of the Albany convention."

Mevin G. Palliser, who sent out the call, said: "This convention is not for any candidate. It is anti-Parker and anti-Hill. We will not stand for Parker and we intend to collate the facts of Mr. Hill's record and present them to the convention. We will serve notice on the convention that Parker cannot carry this state. We are all Democrats and every element of the party is represented in our call except Parker and Hill."

PARKER IS THE CHOICE OF MISSISSIPPI COUNTIES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MOBILE, Ala., June 7.—The Mississippi Democratic state convention, which will meet next week, may not instruct for Parker, but in any event he will get the vote of the delegation under the unit rule. Some of the strongest Parker men in the state are opposed to instructions, on the ground that Mississippi will be in a better position to elect an instructed convention with an uninstructed delegation.

This week will see a great many counties in the state act in the matter. Up to the present 45 votes are instructed for Parker. The counties which have sent Parker delegates to the state convention have 18 votes. The counties which have sent their delegates to the state convention instructed to vote against Parker have 18 votes, and to those may be added the counties of Rankin and Neshoba, making a total of 36 votes.

ORCHARD OPPOSED AT HIS OWN HOME

Butler County Delegates Will Oppose Machine Candidate for Office of State Treasurer.

Ernest Bacon, a prominent business man of Poplar Bluff, who is one of the three delegates to the Democratic state convention from Butler county, declared to the Post-Dispatch Tuesday morning that the Dookery-Cook-Stone-Selbert machine is doing all in its power to embarrass the friends of reform and incidentally handicap the gubernatorial campaign of Circuit Attorney Folk.

"The first move of the state machine," said Mr. Bacon, "was apparent recently when George C. Orchard, candidate for state treasurer, who is a resident of Butler county, sought to name the delegates to the state convention. As delegates of men who have absolutely no sympathy with the cause he represents."

James Orchard, whose friendliness to the lobby is well known; Joe Reynolds, a henchman of Sam B. Cook, and Lew Thomas, a man with a clearly defined machine record.

"The mass of Butler County Democrats rose in revolt against this program and refused Orchard the privilege of naming any of the delegates."

"On behalf of my two colleagues on the delegation, I am authorized to say that we do not approve Mr. Orchard as a candidate for treasurer of Missouri."

Originally Orchard was for Harry B. Haves for governor, then he switched to Reed and when he saw the Folk tide wave sweeping the state he started overtures with the circuit attorney.

"Mr. Orchard has developed considerable strength in the state, but his own county delegation will rebuke him at the state convention."

"Personally, I am opposed to Secretary of State Cook and Auditor Allen. Their record of subservience to machine rule, their faithfulness to the corporations and their willingness to obey the bosses should make them odious in the eyes of all citizens who want reform government in Missouri."

"I am certain that Mr. Folk's friends will demand a new deal. Butler County and all the other counties in southeast Missouri want Mr. Folk for governor, but they do not want him lost down by a lot of men who have absolutely no sympathy with the cause he represents."

SIDEWALK WITH JEHU AGAINST FIANCE

Whatever Miss Howell Testified To,
Coachman Was Not Indicted for Striking Banker Ford.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 7.—All the tongues at least among the women of Morristown, N. J., are wagging merrily over a case of assault, in which Frederick W. Ford, a man in society and a New York banker, had three teeth knocked out by Jacob Winters, a coachman for De Witt Clinton Flanagan, a former representative. The assault occurred on the evening of May 7, but the gossip has been fanned into flame again because of the rumor that Miss Mary Koppie Howell, who was with Ford at the time of the occurrence, testified before the grand jury in favor of the coachman.

On the evening of May 7, the story runs, Ford and his fiancée, Miss Howell, started from an evening train for her home. When about to cross the sidewalk they were stopped by Flanagan's horses, driven by Winters. The horses were nervous and were prancing a little.

Ford says that he horses were running away and he feared that he and his fiancée would be run down, while Winters says that the horses were almost still and that had then under perfect control. At all events, Ford jumped for the horses' heads, grasped their bridles and yanked them back on their haunches, whereat Winters jumped down from the box and struck Ford in the mouth, knocking him down and breaking three of his front teeth.

Fighting mad, Ford bounded up, and probably would have engaged in a fight with the coachman but for the fact that he was accompanied by his fiancée. Monday morning Ford swore out a warrant for Winters' arrest on a charge of assault and battery. The grand jury was in session and Ford was called before that body after hearing the testimony. It is stated, the grand jury had fixed on an indictment against Winters.

At dinner time the fact that Winters was to be indicted leaked out, and it is said that Flanagan at once took a hand in the matter. After dinner Miss Howell was called before the grand jury and that body fought over the matter all the afternoon, with the result that no indictment was returned. Now, it is contended on every hand that Miss Howell gave testimony in favor of the coachman, which would justify her to change their minds. It is also said that there are strained relations of a serious nature between Mr. Ford and his fiancée, and that the wedding, which was to have taken place next month, may be postponed indefinitely.

These are mainly rumors, however, as Mr. Ford refuses to talk and Miss Howell denies herself to all callers.

SON'S WEDDING A SURPRISE TO LEGISLATOR TICHACEK

MR. AND MRS. FRANK J. TICHACEK

Intimate friends and even members of the bridegroom's family were completely surprised when Miss Mary Chelika and Frank Tichacek, son of Representative Louis J. Tichacek, of 2411 South Twelfth street, were married at St. Wenceslaus' Church, 2038 Oregon avenue.

After returning and telling the family they went to the fair, where they spent the day. For the present they will live with Mr. Tichacek's parents.

Mrs. Tichacek came to this country from Austria seven years ago and has since made her home with her husband's parents. There are eight sons in the Tichacek family, and apparently no one could tell for which Miss Chelika showed a preference.

Her engagement to Frank was not announced and they decided to have a quiet wedding, and made their arrangements so successfully that the other members of the household were ignorant of their intentions.

When they returned home and announced their wedding the parents welcomed their new daughter heartily. "You could not have guessed," said Mr. Tichacek, "that my son would be married. He is an artist of considerable talent and his home is filled with specimens of his work in oils, crayon and pencil."

NO DUTY ON "LANTERN WATCH"

Collector Gallenkamp's Decision Sustains Commissioner Lagrave.

There will be no international or other complications on the beautiful little "Lantern watch" presented by Commissioner Lagrave of France to Miss Alice Roosevelt.

There was a story that the United States would demand customs duty on the watch, as it was an imported article, and was sold in this country. Collector Gallenkamp says there is nothing in the story, and that no duties will be or have been demanded. The arrival of the watch and the fact of its presentation to Miss Roosevelt were duly reported to his office, he says, but there the matter ended.

There was a belief some quarters that the fact of the sale of the watch from the manufacturer to the collector was a violation of the tariff laws, by whom it was presented to Miss Roosevelt, might make it liable for payment of customs duties. Contrary argument, however, and the one which seems to have been sustained, was that the watch was technically not sold in the United States, but in France, the French collector acting merely as the agent.

Charles W. Francis Asked to Explain Absence of Witnesses.

Judge Pollard has set June 14 as the date when Charles W. Francis, assistant to the health commissioner, must appear in the Dayton street police court and explain why there was no prosecuting witness in the court this morning when Dr. P. H. Griffin was arraigned upon a charge of having failed to report a contagious case.

The attorney for the health department arose when the case was called and stated that a mistake had been made in the complaint, and that the information did not suffice with Judge Pollard, who demanded the presence of Francis to explain the mistake.

Anti-Shirtwaist Rule Applies to Those

PATIENTS ARE ALSO EXHIBITS

Desert Sergeant Must Not Presume to Sit in Shirt Sleeves on the Hottest Day.

Prisoners at the World's Fair police station and patients in the Emergency hospital, as well as policemen and doctors, must keep their coats on or be guilty of a breach of the recent anti-shirtwaist rule issued by Director of Exhibits Skiff.

Both the police station and hospital, as parts of the Model Street, are exhibits. They are in the jurisdiction of Howard J. Rogers, chief of education and social economy, and Mr. Rogers is under the jurisdiction of the great enemy of the shirt-waist man, Mr. Skiff.

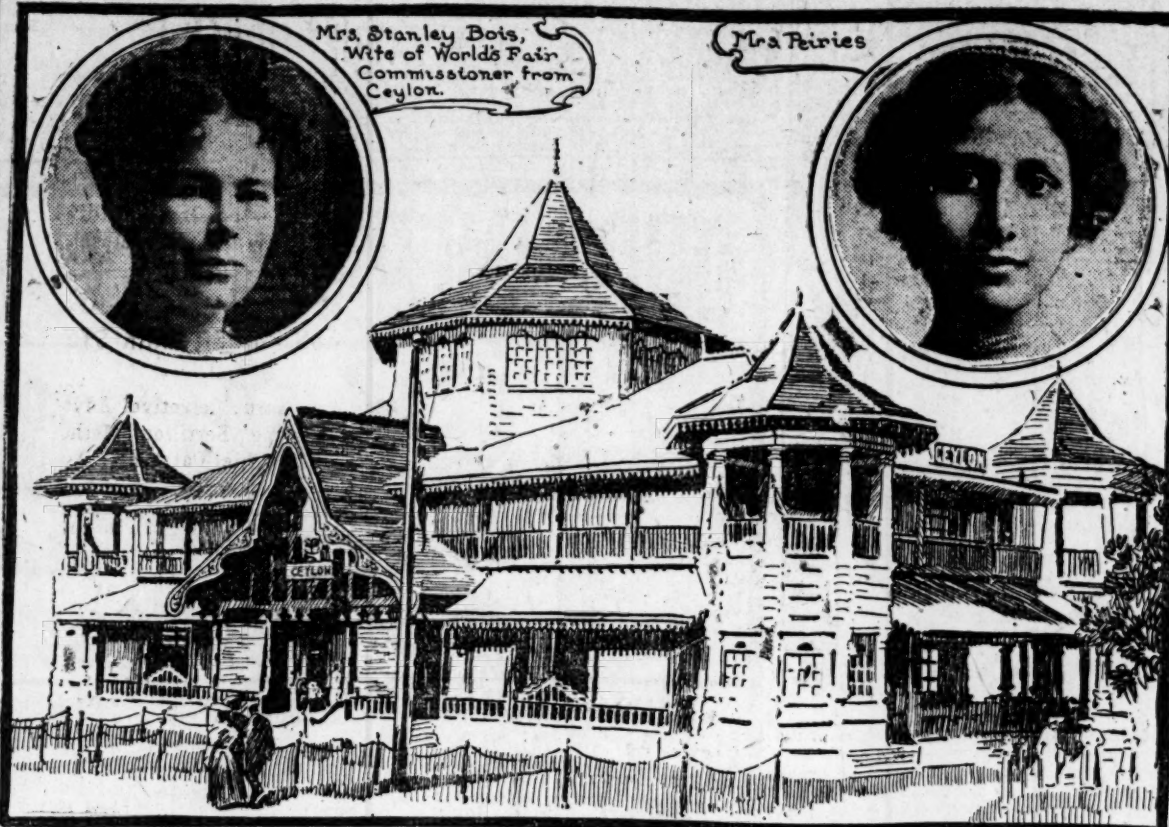

No part of the police station is safe from the invasion of Exposition visitors. Capt. Young is an exhibit; so is Chief Desmond when inside the grounds and the small army of sleuths and patrolmen are likewise subject to the scrutiny of the curious.

At the hospital Dr. Moore and his staff of physicians are a part of the working exhibit. Only one room in the building is free from inspection, and that is maintained for the care of distinguished persons who may be taken ill on the Exposition grounds.

Patients in the other parts must receive visitors and must therefore keep their coats on or commit the breach of which Mr. Skiff stands in such fear. So also must the prisoners, for at any moment they are likely to become the centers of attention. From the moment of their arrest they are exhibits, and sitting in the clean cells of the hospital, must show visitors how a model jail cares for a prisoner, whether he be model or not.

As yet the police have had little difficulty in enforcing the anti-shirtwaist rule, as cool weather has been on their side, but with the advent of hot weather Capt.

Father Fires the Last Shot.

ROSELLE, N. J., June 7.—After killing three of his children and wounding a fourth, Joseph M. Pouch, at one time an undertaker, shot himself through the head last night and died a few moments later.

Pouch lived in a little cottage with his four children.

Yesterday he shot two of them and embalmed their bodies. He took the other two to an upper room with him. Meanwhile he had mailed a warning to County Physician Wescott, who upon receiving the letter, notified the police.

When the officials knocked at the door of the Pouch cottage Pouch shot and killed his little daughter and wounded his sole remaining son. He then shot himself and died as the police forced an entrance.

The boy will recover.

Pouch is believed to have been insane.

BROTHER'S PISTOL HURRIED WEDDING

John Peebles Was Not in a Sweat to Marry Miss Kieseau, But Was "Persuaded."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 7.—They do things so queerly in this big city. Miss Ella Kieseau is now the wife of John Peebles. It was a surprise affair, in which the bride's two brothers and a big pistol played parts even more prominent than that of the bride and groom.

Young Peebles and Miss Kieseau have known each other several years. Peebles says that he never promised to marry her. He had an appointment Sunday afternoon with the young woman and spent more than an hour with her. Unobserved by him, the two brothers of the girl, William Kieseau, a policeman, and Charles Kieseau, were keeping watch. Later they pursued and captured Peebles.

The policeman drew his revolver and, pointing it at the young man's head, told him he would shoot if Peebles refused to go with him and marry Miss Ella Kieseau. He consented and was taken by the brothers to Wortham on a car. There the party was joined by the bride-elect, who, it is said, was not aware of the desperate plan of her brothers.

After the ceremony Peebles went home and the brothers took possession of the bride. "It is true my brother threatened to blow his head off," said Charles Kieseau. "We felt perfectly justified and would have been willing to die for it. We gave Peebles every chance in the world to marry our sister and when he didn't take advantage of it, we took things in our own hands, regardless of consequences."

The Father's Letter.

"This is to thank Paine's Celery Compound for the good it has done. Our daughter Katie quickly got well again by taking your medicine. She was very sick and tired and not strong enough to go to school any more. She got thinner every day. We nursed her all night many a time.

"Our next door neighbor sent us Paine's Celery Compound for her. In two days she was better so she could be up. She kept right on improving, and now she is so well you would not think she had been sick."

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Klotzbucher, Chadwick St., Philadelphia.

The Daughter's Letter.

"My father sent you a letter to tell how I was cured after I was so weak and poorly I had to leave school. I was thankful to Paine's Celery Compound. Now we are grateful still more, for we cured our father by the same good medicine. He is a blacksmith and a very large man. He is six feet one inch tall. He was up all night and working in daytime. Before I began to get well he began to get sick without knowing it. He got so poor that his face was thin and he was complaining of his head and trouble with his stomach. He would be sick all the time. In the first time in his life I thought, Paine's Celery Compound would do him good. It cured him very soon. He is strong and healthy more than he was before. He could be up. She kept Celery Compound. Katie Klotzbucher.

"I will also thank Paine's Celery Compound, for it made my husband strong and well for us." Mrs. J. J. Klotzbucher, Chadwick St., Philadelphia.

MUST GO OUT! YOU CAN'T GO OUT!

—“Bob” Burdette
—Jefferson Guard
Minister-Humorist Had Pass in Pocket
to Leave Inside Inn on Sunday
But Forgot It.
FAILS TO MAKE AN ADDRESS
West Point Cadets Call to Escort Him
But Guard Said “Nay, Nay!”—
He Tells the Joke.

The Rev. “Bob” Burdette, genial humorist and defender of humorists, played a clever joke on himself Sunday afternoon, and did not tell about it until Tuesday morning.

The Rev. Burdette has been staying at the inside inn for more than two weeks, and has been the last of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, remained for the National Press Association, lingered through the meeting of the World's Press Parliament, and then stayed to take a prominent part in the serious deliberations of the Press Parliament. Between times he has found opportunity to make public appearances and speeches at numerous places. Sunday afternoon, after the banquet to the Press Parliament at the Mercantile Club Saturday night, Mr. Burdette had an engagement to give a serious speech before an audience of West Point cadets at the Hall of Congresses at the Fair. His speech was to be given at 4 o'clock. At 3:30 he left his easy chair at the hotel, and started confidently for the gate leading outside the hotel enclosure into the Fair grounds. A guard stopped him.

“No advance without a special pass,” said the guard.

“But I have an engagement to make a speech,” said Rev. Burdette.

“Engagements don't go without a pass,” said the guard.

Rev. Burdette argued and persuaded vainly, and went back to his hotel.

A short while afterward a delegation of West Point cadets came to learn why he had not appeared to make the speech. He explained, and the cadets took the matter up with the guard. The result was the same, and again Mr. Burdette went back to his easy chair, while the cadets marched back to the Hall of Congresses to explain why there would be no speech.

About 6 o'clock Rev. Burdette began to search his pockets for a letter which he wanted to refer to. A lot of pastels attracted his attention. He glanced at it curiously, then sat straight, looked around guiltily, and fished out the piece of pasteboard was the pass which the guard had insisted on seeing, and which would have admitted him through the gate.

Rev. Burdette carefully put the pass back in his pocket and went to supper. Several times he chuckled to himself over the joke, but he did not tell any one else of it until a day and a half later.

NEW EMBLEM FOR NUTMEG STATE

Connecticut Building, on Plateau of States, Abounds in Memorials of Charter Oak.

The Connecticut building at the World's Fair, in its architecture and furnishings, is intended to make an appeal for a new nickname for that state, to replace the nutmeg.

A battle is raging between the nutmeg and the oak. The oak is the best thing represented by the state. Connecticut is now the Nutmeg State because of the alleged production by certain of its early inhabitants of wooden nutmegs. Many in the state are anxious to have the Charter Oak recognized, in place of the nutmeg, and these would have their state known as the Constitution State.

Mrs. John M. Holcomb is one of these. As a member of the board of lady managers she has worked indefatigably in the interest of the state building. Through her efforts a building was selected to be removed to the Fair and furnishings were obtained, with great difficulty, which would promote the patriotic sentiment on which the movement for the change of the name rests.

No person who visits the Connecticut building finds anything to remind him of the poor little nutmeg. He finds the Charter Oak, many things to remind of the claim that Connecticut gave the United States its constitution.

In a charter oak frame in the entrance hall there are quotations from historians who testify to Connecticut's contribution to the nation's charter.

“The eleven fundamental orders of Connecticut, with a copy of the original Charter of 1786, are on display. The first example in history of a written constitution, and the extensions taken from other historians are of like tenor.”

The building is an original Colonial mansion from Connecticut, which was rescued as it was about to be razed, taken down carefully and shipped to the fair. The appeal it makes for a more dignified designation than “nutmeg” state is strengthened by the old-fashioned furnishings, many of the quaint articles of furniture, and the fact that the building when the constitution is stated to have been born in Connecticut.

“Connecticut the Nutmeg state; where will you find a grater?” is a favorite toast when Connecticut folks feast. And those who would have the name remain as low in the world as a pun could be made out of the constitution.

The “nutmeg” flower is spoken of every time Connecticut folks get together, and once in a while a funny man in another state says something about it, thinking it has never been thought of before.

FALL DOWN SHAFT WAS FATAL

Samuel O'Brien Succumbs to Injuries
Received During Thursday
Morning's Storm.

Samuel O'Brien of 231 North Grand avenue died at the City Hospital Monday night of internal injuries sustained in a fall of 60 feet down a shaft at the plant of the Laclede Gas and Power Co. at the foot of O'Fallon street Thursday morning.

O'Brien was being lifted out of the shaft in a bucket, while a severe electrical storm was taking place. In some manner the wires at the side of the shaft became charged with electricity and a spark came in contact with a wire. He lost his balance and fell to the bottom of the shaft. He was taken from the shaft immediately and sent to the City Hospital, where his chest was wounded and his leg broken. It was thought he would recover.

Since Sunday he has not been so well, and his death Monday night was due to the internal injuries received. He was 32 years

FAIR BOARDS LOCK HORNS ON PASSES

National Commission Claims the Right to Approve All Admissions.

MATTER WILL BE ARBITRATED

Local Company Names Two Directors
Who Will Meet Two Commissioners.

LAW UPON WHICH THE COMMISSIONERS STAND.

Section 7. That after the plans for said Exposition shall be prepared by said company and approved by said commission, the rules and regulations of said corporation governing rates for entrance and admission fees, or otherwise affecting the rights, privileges or interests of exhibitors, or of the public, shall be fixed or established by said company, subject, however, to the modification or approval of said commission.

From Congressional Regulations of National World's Fair Commission.

Arbitration will be resorted to in order to define the rights of the national commission in regulating free admissions to the Fair.

An arbitration committee composed of Senators Thomas H. Carter and John M. Thurston of the national World's Fair commission and Judge Wilbur F. Boyle and Charles W. Knapp, representing the local World's Fair company, will select a fifth member and, after hearing the arguments of the contesting parties, decide the disputed points.

The decision to lay the controversy before an arbitration committee came after the national commission had prepared a brief and was about to appeal to the United States attorney-general to begin proceedings seeking to enforce what it claims is its authority.

Correspondence setting forth the wish of the national commission to be given a voice in regulating free admissions to the Fair and presenting on the other hand the position of the Fair officials, had been in progress since early in May between Senator Carter, president of the national commission, and President Francis.

The commission has stated the belief that it is entitled to recognition in the management of the Fair and in such management ought to have something to say about who goes in and who does not, without charge, and who should not be.

The Exposition company's position has been that it is responsible for the success of the Fair and for that reason should have sole jurisdiction in the matter of admissions.

Matters reached the stage where correspondence became only a repetition of former statements and it was then that the national commission prepared a brief and ready to appeal to the attorney-general to begin proceedings in order to enforce its authority.

After the brief was prepared the Exposition management was notified of the action and the decision to arbitrate was then reached.

In its brief prepared for the attorney-general the commission quoted the act of Congress, approved March 3, 1876, authorizing the commission to exercise powers of modification of rules and regulations, or the rights of admission, or the rights of exhibitors, or the rights of the public, subject, however, to the modification or approval of said commission.

In its general recommendations to the Exposition company, the national commission suggested modifications of present rules and regulations of concessionaires to the effect that the concessionaires should be required to give a right of admission to all persons, and that the concessionaires should be required to give a right of admission to all persons, and that the concessionaires should be required to give a right of admission to all persons.

"MELVILLE STONE SCARED; NEVER"

Club Women Laugh at Excuses for Associated Press Man's Address on Yellow Journalism.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—At a reception in this city last night in honor of the delegates from the local women's clubs to the national meeting of the National Federation of Women's Clubs, which was held at the Hotel Hamilton, the press of the city was present. The women of the Woman's Tribune, discussed the question of modern “Yellow Journalism,” a term which is used to describe the type of publication which is characterized by sensationalism and by the use of the times when women were not supposed to form a part of the reading public.

As an incident of the relation of her experiences at the World's Fair, she made a brief reply to Melville A. Stone's assertion that it is the women who are largely responsible for the publication of “Yellow Journalism.”

“Mr. Stone,” she stated, “said it was the women who are responsible for the publication of ‘Yellow Journalism.’ The newspapers read by women are, declares, delivered at the homes, not bought on the streets. Modern yellow journalism is the product of the men, not of the women. It is the men who are largely responsible for the publication of ‘Yellow Journalism.’”

She predicted it would not last.

Miss Francis French, who acted as president at the reception in commenting on Mrs. Stone's remarks, says she was a student of the various papers, and she said that when he stood up to speak and said that it was the women who were largely responsible for the publication of “Yellow Journalism,” she was so much surprised that she did not know what to say.

“What,” ejaculated Mrs. Charles M. Pepper, a man who has been in the newspaper business in Chicago as long as Melville Stone has, got scared? I guess not.”

HOSPITAL SHOWS PLANS.

Exhibit of Johns Hopkins Institution,
Baltimore, Being Placed.

An interesting display being placed at the Fair is from Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore.

It will be found in the Educational building. The exhibit consists of a series of photographs showing the hospital's exterior, views of the interior, groups of students in the laboratory, and models of the various parts of the hospital. The exhibit is a most interesting one, and it is well worth a visit to the hospital.

Through the interest of Mrs. Parkes the Maryland commission appropriated a sum of money for this purpose. The exhibit was prepared by Miss A. C. Ross and Miss Carolyn Conant Van Blarcom, assistant superintendents of the training school.

Miss Van Blarcom is a daughter of A. J. Conant, now of New York, but who for many years was a well-known portrait painter of St. Louis.

MOTHER'S PLEA SAVES BOY.

She Declares Emil Ulrich Shot Father in Defending Her.

After five minutes' deliberation, a jury in Judge Taylor's court Monday afternoon acquitted Emil Ulrich, aged 18, on the charge of murdering his father, Conrad Ulrich, at their home, 234 South Third street.

The tears of Emil's mother, as she related the story of the homicide, were wiped away by the jury, and she was granted a few minutes' respite.

Prince Pu Lun Arranges for Rapid Transit in Bringing Empress' Portrait Here.

Prince Pu Lun has learned how to use a new American institution—the special train. He is going to charter one to bring the Empress An's portrait from the West to St. Louis.

The prince has given orders that if it costs him $100,000, the portrait must be here by June 8, and, as a result, the picture promises to have a swift trip the remaining few hundred miles of its journey to St. Louis.

Soon after the Prince arose Tuesday morning he received a telegram at his apartments in the Washington Hotel from Owong King of San Francisco, a brother of Kee Owong, an attaché of the Chinese legation in St. Louis, stating that the picture had left San Francisco, is on the way to St. Louis, and would probably reach here June 12.

When Vice Commissioner Wong Kai Kai translated the telegram, Prince Pu Lun frowned.

“It must be here June 8,” he said. “After a moment's thought his face cleared, and he rapidly telegraphed to Mr. Wong. The latter looked surprised, then pleased, and hurried off to follow the prince's suggestion, which was to hire a special train at once, have the right of way cleared, and bring the picture with the guard of honor to St. Louis at the greatest possible speed.”

TO THE FAIR IN A HOUSEBOAT

L. Lamb of Clinton, Io., and Party
Arrive on Splendid Craft for Week's Stay.

The houseboat Idler, one of the most luxuriously appointed craft on the Mississippi river, arrived at the foot of Market street Monday afternoon after an uneventful trip from Clinton, Io.

The Idler is owned by L. Lamb, a wealthy lumberman of Clinton, who spends most of his leisure time in the summer cruising on the Mississippi from St. Paul to New Orleans.

Different from most private river yachts, the Idler has no propelling power of its own, but is towed by the boat Wanderer. Large and comfortable, the Idler is a most interesting craft, and it is well worth a visit to the houseboat.

The upper deck is the lounging place in good weather and is provided with staterooms, chairs and hammocks, that combine to make life one of ease while on the river. The Idler is a most interesting craft, and it is well worth a visit to the houseboat.

The party on the present trip includes Mr. and Mrs. L. Lamb, Clinton, Io.; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jones, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Carpenter, Minneapolis; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Smith, Minneapolis; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Hoffman, Clinton.

The Idler, towed by the Wanderer, will leave for Clinton Saturday afternoon after Mr. Lamb and his party have spent the week at the Fair, and will return later in the season for a longer stay.

Mr. Lamb makes a most interesting cruise to New Orleans. During the stay in St. Louis the party will make their home on the houseboat.

Should Hear Their Charges Against Each Other.

At the request of her parents, 10-year-old Mary Kraus was excluded from Judge Sale's courtroom Tuesday morning, during the hearing of the testimony in the divorce suit of the mother, Mrs. Mary Kraus, against John Kraus, and on the latter's cross-bill.

The parents are contesting for the possession of the child, and they agreed that the details of the testimony by which each expects to prove a right to divorce and the custody of the daughter were not fitted for the ears of their daughter.

Mrs. Kraus testified that she was married Oct. 27, 1887, and separated from her husband, John Kraus, and that she had been a Christian Science believer, after she had been cured of paralysis of the lower limbs.

Kraus testified that his wife was a freeholder of her own, and that her belief in Christian Science was not the sole reason of their disagreements. He related alleged details of the misconduct with which he charged her in support of his contention that she should be given possession of their daughter.

COUPLE THROWN FROM BUGGY

Vehicle Occupied by H. B. Ritter and Miss Mabel McCoy Was Struck by a Car.

H. B. Ritter of 148 Dolman street, and Miss Mabel McCoy of 239 Morgan street, started out for a drive in a storm buggy Monday night. Miss McCoy returned in a street car. Ritter returned by way of the Dispensary.

They had started west on Franklin avenue, and at the intersection of Franklin and Grand avenues got in the path of a Page boulevard car.

The storm buggy was smashed and its occupants thrown out and dragged for several feet. Both sustained several minor scratches and bruises, but no bones were broken. The damage to the buggy was $100; that to the street car was $25.

KANSAS HAS BIG OIL FIELD.

Rivals That of Bradford, Pa., According to Expert.

TOLEDO, O., June 7.—Mr. J. C. Donnell, vice-president of the Standard Oil Co. and general manager of the Ohio Oil Co., the producing branch of the company in Ohio and Indiana fields, has just returned from a trip to the Kansas oil fields. When asked for an expert opinion of the Kansas field, Mr. Donnell said:

“My impression is that there is a whole lot of oil in Kansas. Why, sir, there is a country there 150 miles long and at least 20 miles wide on which you see wells everywhere. And they are real oil wells, too. The field looks greater than that at Bradford, Pa. If the oil could be marketed as fast as produced I believe they could raise the production to 1,000 barrels a day in six months. It is 15,000 now.”

SWITCHMAN FATALLY CRUSHED

Dennis Listen Caught Between Car and Stone Wall.

Dennis Listen of 207 Prairie avenue, a switchman employed by the Virginia Ferry, was caught between a freight car and the stone wall of the National Armory works at the foot of Mallinckrodt street last Monday night and crushed to death.

He was dead when the car was pulled back and his body released. The body was taken to the morgue.

CHIEF O'NEILL SCORES POLITICS

Says That Is the Greatest Difficulty
With Which They Must Deal.

DISCUSS FINGER-MARK SYSTEM

Scotland Yard Detective Advocates
Abolishing Bertillon Method in Thief-Catching.

“If policemen's clubs were gold instead of hickory there would not be greater rivalry for them,” declared Chief of Police Francis O'Neill of Chicago at the Tuesday morning session of the National Association of Chiefs of Police at the Fair.

“Politics is the greatest difficulty with which chiefs of police have to deal,” he continued. “The police department should be entirely independent of politics. Civil service rules should prevail.”

Detective Farrier of Scotland Yard precipitated a lively discussion by reading a paper in which he advocated the use of the “finger mark” system of identification and the abandonment of the Bertillon system.

He declared that Scotland Yard detectives used their marks as a means of identification exclusively and met with much success. He related the incident of capturing a burglar, whose finger mark on the globe of his bull's-eye lantern was photographed and compared with a finger mark of a bank robber, leading to the conviction of the guilty man.

The chiefs of police took sides over Detective Farrier's paper, some agreeing with him and others speaking in favor of the Bertillon system alone. The majority favored a combination of both systems.

William A. Pinkerton, head of the detective agency of that name, read a paper on bank robbers and bank robberies. He talked principally about “vegetables” and their methods of work. More bank robberies had occurred during the past five years in the middle West than in any other section of the country, he said.

From Sept. 15, 1900, to Sept. 15, 1901, 117 banks were robbed and $17,537,392 secured. In the same period 29 yeomen were convicted and given aggregate sentences of 44 years. In the year following 160 banks were attacked and $152,378,272 secured. Forty-three robbers were given aggregate sentences of 115 years. Twenty-five robbers were convicted and given aggregate sentences of 115 years.

GOOD WORK CHEATS HIM OF PROMOTION

High School Teacher Loses Superintendency Because of Competency in Present Place.

Because Prof. John J. McGlynn had been faithful in a few things he was not made ruler over many things.

When he applied for the position of superintendent of schools of East St. Louis the board of education tied in its choice between him and another candidate.

When McGlynn was elected to the position of superintendent of schools of East St. Louis, President J. T. W. Rudelst decided that, because Prof. McGlynn had made an excellent instructor in science in the East St. Louis high school, he should be retained there, and that the position of superintendent of schools should be given to another.

The issue came to a crisis at Monday night's meeting of the board. The names of two applicants were voted on. They were Prof. McGlynn and John E. Miller, city librarian. Mr. McGlynn had made a good record and had canvassed hard for the promotion, which meant an increase in salary from $1500 to $2500 per year.

The vote stood 6 to 6. Directors Matthews, Woerstein, Coy, Hunniger, Sullivan and Gaynor being for McGlynn, and Directors Braden, Gray, Kramer, Abt, Renshaw and Heller for Miller.

It became necessary for the president of the board to cast the deciding vote.

He explained that personally he favored neither man above the other. Considering, however, that Mr. McGlynn was so highly prized as a teacher and as a librarian, he decided to give the position to Mr. Miller.

The name of the present superintendent, John Richardson, was not presented.

There is some talk among those dissatisfied with the election of McGlynn that it is charged by those that the application of D. Walter Fatt was read, just that the president announced that as the name did not receive a second vote it would not be considered. Those complaining say it is not necessary to second a nomination.

There was a large crowd present at the meeting; a large number of the high school students, and an interesting proceeding. For several years politics has not been a factor in the school government of East St. Louis, but it is charged by some that in the case politics played a part. At the last election, only one party had a ticket in the field.

REPORT THEFT AT THE FAIR

German Exhibitors Will Ask That Guards Not Admit Visitors After Closing Hours.

Exhibitors in the German section of the Varied Industries building at the Fair reported to the Exposition officials Tuesday morning that sometime between the closing of the building at 7 o'clock Monday evening and the opening at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning a large number of articles had been stolen.

Mr. Nicola, in charge of a section of the exhibit, says the cup and saucer were in place when the building was closed, and that he saw a man enter the building and saw a Jefferson Guard reopen the doors and admit a people. He says the exhibit was taken from the building and that the guards to be more careful in keeping the buildings closed after the closing hours.

CAPTORS RESCUED WOMAN FROM ROOF

Belle Melville Had Climbed on Top of House When Detectives Came.

THEY FORMED A HUMAN CHAIN

Woman Locked Up Because of Disappearance of H. C. Roper's Valuable.

Melodramatic was the capture and arrest of Belle Melville of Chicago, alleged pickpocket, on the roof of her rooming house at 263 Olive street, Tuesday morning.

Belle Melville and a companion, Minnie Miller, forged the acquaintance of H. C. Roper of 3735 Pine street Monday night at the Olive street Palm Garden, and at the same time cultivated an attachment for his gold cuff buttons and $50 of his cash, he charges.

Detectives Ziegler, Lohbeck, Cronin and Smith went to 263 Olive street to arrest the two women and found Minnie Miller in their room, but not her companion.

After a search they discovered that she had climbed through a window and along a ledge of the roof to a chimney, where they found her clinging in danger of falling 45 feet to the paved court below.

Her position was even too dangerous for another to follow unaided, and the four detectives quickly formed a human “ladder” and by holding hands reached the woman and dragged her back to safety. Both women were locked up at the Four Courts.

BELT FOR MISS ROOSEVELT

Olympic Games Officials Will Present
President's Daughter Souvenir of Unique Design.

Miss Alice Roosevelt is to have yet another souvenir of her visit to St. Louis and the Fair. It will go to her as a result of her appearance at the Olympic games at the Stadium Saturday, when she presented the winners with their medals and banners.

The souvenirs will be a belt, composed of three medals and a buckle, and joined by ribbons of the exposition colors. One of the medals of the belt will be a representation of the senior champion medal which was presented; another will be of the handicap championship medal.

The buckle will be a representation of the Olympic bar.

The belt was designed by James Sullivan, secretary of the Physical Culture department, and will be presented by that department. It will be sent to President Roosevelt for presentation to his daughter.

The Belvoir commissioners will also send Miss Roosevelt a souvenir of her visit to the Belvoir building. The present is a very large and handsome vase, of ivory, silver and gold, which has been a feature of the decoration of the building.

Roosevelt visited the place she was asked to make a selection from among the vase, and chose this one. It is 2 feet in height, and is valued at $350.

CHILD REVIVED AT FUNERAL

CUSTER, S. D., June 7.—After lying 24 hours in her coffin, Mabel Fearing, the 3-year-old daughter of C. M. Fearing, has been revived. The child was saved through the intervention of Dr. E. S. Norton, a relative, who was at the house to attend her funeral.

Dr. Norton noted the rose cheeks and unchanged appearance of the child and refused to believe the report that she was dead. He called other physicians and an effort was made to revive the child. At 10 o'clock signs of returning animation were noted.

Half an hour later the resuscitation indicated a return to life. The child was revived, and later the child was sleeping in the arms of its mother. The child was in an advanced convalescent stage.

BIG CROWDS AT THE ODEON.

Lower Floor Was Sold Out at the Kirkly Show Last Night.

Bolossy Kirkly's week of hard work to retrieve the error of putting on his spectacle at the Odeon before it was ready is bearing fruit.

The attendance last night was the best since the opening. The lower floor, which seats more than 1000 persons, was entirely sold out, and the balcony was almost filled.

Kirkly has finally got the big show under control, and he is giving performances that are the best of the kind. The big ball is the most-talked-of feature of the Odeon. The dancing, the gymnastics, and the performance of all Nations are big and more than enough to keep the Kirklys in the line of long career as a producer of spectacles.

BE SURE IT'S CROAK'S

no need for hesitation if the Croak label is there. It stands for all that is new and stylish in men's clothes and if it's the label in your coat, you'll know the style is correct.

THE EXCISE COMMISSIONERSHIP.

The guilt or innocence of Excise Commissioner Seibert under the indictment charged against him is a question to be settled in court by the law and the evidence. But regardless of the prosecution, there is a moral indictment against the office and the manner in which it has been conducted, which is emphasized by the legal indictment of Mr. Seibert.

Obviously framed and passed for the purpose of placing in control of the saloons of this city an officer appointed by the governor, who would be removed from the saloon influence, the office was really intended to be and has been a convenient means of securing for the Democratic organization a tribute from the saloons and of richly rewarding a party worker. It placed the state machine directly in control of the saloons, with power to make them contribute, through its fees and otherwise, to the Democratic party's campaign fund.

According to the testimony of ex-Senator Peers, the argument used with him by William J. Stone, then ex-governor and legal adviser of the excise commissioner, and now United States senator, to defeat a bill making the office a salaried place was that the large fees supplied a convenient revenue to be drawn upon by the Democratic party when it needed funds. This argument has been used to defeat every measure designed to turn the fees from saloon licenses into the state treasury. The treasury has been robbed for the benefit of the party.

For years the Post-Dispatch has pointed out the error of the fee system in this office, the temptation it offered the incumbent to multiply saloons, the power it gave the party to utilize the saloon power and the saloon purse for party purpose. It has demanded of every legislature that it abolish the fee system and make the office salaried, but the best measure that could be obtained was a reduction of the pay of the commissioner.

It is to be hoped that a legislature will be elected under the influence of the Democratic reform movement which will wisely amend the excise law and place the office upon a sound basis. The first necessary thing to do is to abolish the fee system, against which lies the greatest objection. If the men who are trying to accomplish reforms in the control of saloons so that the dens and dance halls may be removed would give time and attention to legislation and then see that only good men who will enforce the laws get into office, their efforts to accomplish reforms in the interest of morality and decency would be more effective.

The attention of the manager of the Carnegie hero fund should be at once directed to the veteran of Iowa who has been married ten times.

COURAGE WANTED.

In an address to the graduating class of the Albany law school Justice Brewer had this to say of the influence of the corporation lobby:

"The danger lies in the fact that they are so powerful and that the pressure of so much power upon the individual lawmaker tempts him to forget the nation. And the danger is greater because it is insidious. I do not mean to insinuate that all legislators are influenced thereby. I know there are many who stand in the full integrity of their being, but within the limits of our profession are many weak characters who yield to the pressure of corporate interests, deluding themselves with the idea that those interests are synonymous with the interests of the nation."

The judge is a master of soft words. The young law students will find more instruction in the confessions of some lawmakers out here in Missouri and in the admission by state officers of subservience to interests which buy legislation beforehand with campaign contributions.

The need just now is a courage which will eschew euphemisms and speak the truth without reserve. Candidates are especially bound to show this species of bravery.

Some of the brightest writing has been done by dyspeptics. The World's Fair gastronomic stunts of the press humorists may greatly improve their work.

JAPANESE "SPIRIT OF THE HIVE."

It is said that the Japanese in Tokyo are paying almost divine honors to a piece of human flesh—all that remains of their naval hero, Commander Hirose, who sacrificed himself in one of the attempts to close the harbor of Port Arthur. With officers and men alike, self-sacrifice appears to be a Japanese instinct when patriotism is concerned. Men volunteer for a forlorn hope by requests written in their own blood. It is a question of great interest how these people developed this spirit of heroism.

Max Nordau believes it is a result of the Japanese lack of individuality. In other words, it is an expression of what Maeterlinck calls the "spirit of the hive" among bees. Every bee is very by instinct. As the result of ages of life in colonies, every bee is always prepared to sacrifice its life for the common good, Nordau says.

"The Japanese is a collective being, a part of the mass. He lives in and with the mass. He is strong in the mass, and interesting as a constituent of it. Hence his indifference to death—the extinction of personality. He has no individual life, either here or beyond the grave."

What do the Japanese themselves think of this theory?

The Woman and the "Ad."

Whenever there is anything to sell—a staple or a momentary fad—it's strange, and yet this simple fact I tell: They always use a woman for an "ad."

It may be oats; again, it may be beer; It may be shirts—plain, plaited, checked or plaid; But whatso they are pushing—ain't it queer? They always use a woman for an "ad."

It may be shoes, of whatever brand; It may be pants, that cheaply may be had; Yet you will find, throughout this glorious land, They always use a woman for an "ad."

I can't explain the wherefore—or I won't; Yet this I know—it makes me very glad, Who'd live in any country where they use Don't include a charming woman in an "ad."

AN EYE IN THE TOP OF YOUR HEAD

Or at Least the Remains of One That Your Far-Away Ancestors Had.

Has anyone ever complimented you on the beauty of your upper eye or inquired after your gills? For, though you may not know it, you number them among the disused features of your body.

In the center of your brain, looking vaguely skyward, lie the trophied remains of a third eye, which, it is supposed, was actually one of man's useful features at some previous state of development. It is known as the pineal gland, though covered by skin, and is found in an almost perfect condition in certain lizards.

Superfluous Gills and Ears.

You have your gills, or brachial clefts, which, however, are now closed up and useless. You originally had six, but two of them, by forming into your ear and your mouth, respectively, turned themselves to some account. However, before your lungs developed and became fitted to carry on your breathing system the work was done by the four gills which have since chirood headed to develop and become closed up.

Your ears—that is, the outer ones—are quite useless save as an ornament. All the work of hearing is done by the middle ear or tympanum and the internal ear. The outer feature is purely a pleasant sort of finishing touch to your hearing system. The muscles of the outer ear are powerless and are not under our control.

Are you aware that you have a minuscule grand piano in your auditory nerve, which is tuned up to every note in music? This is known as Corti's organ, and consists of the drum of your ear and enable you to distinguish the difference of sounds.

Some Are Useful. As sometimes when you strike a note on the piano some ornament in the room will be found to sing with it, so each of these has locked it in their interest and held it there, and before the winter was over the whole pool would become solid ice and all the poor fish would be entombed in clear, beautiful crystal.

There's No Place Like Home. It is to be noted, says Dr. Charles C. Abbott in Lippincott's that for more than one year old wrens come directly to their nesting site of the preceding summer. If it is still intact, all's well. There is no loitering in the neighborhood, nor has it ever happened, so far as my observation extends, that a single bird appears and a mate subsequently comes upon the scene. The pair arrive together. This is unquestionably true of my doornest wrens of the past seven summers, and suggests that the marital tie is not voluntarily broken, whatever the birds' careers from August to April. The male may lose his mate, but he soon finds another, and the widowed bird may lose her lord, but she promptly makes again, and so one or the other keeps the old summer home in mind and it is never forsaken. It becomes a fixed feature of their lives.

Why Ice Stays on Top. It is one of the most extraordinary things in this extraordinary world, writes Henry Martyn Hart in the Outlook, that water should be the sole exception to the otherwise universal law that all cooling bodies contract and therefore increase in density.

Water contracts as its temperature falls, and therefore becomes heavier, and sinks until it reaches 32 degrees. At this temperature water is the heaviest; this is the point of its maximum density. From this point it begins to expand. Therefore in winter, although the surface of the water falls at a temperature of 32 degrees, the water at the bottom of the pool is six or seven degrees warmer.

Suppose that water, like everything else, had gone on contracting as it cooled until it reached the freezing point; the heaviest water would have sunk to the lowest place and there become ice. Although it is true that eight pints of water become nine pints of ice, and therefore icebergs float, showing above the surface an eighth of their bulk, still, had the water when at the bottom turned into ice, the stones would

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A GOOD SUGGESTION.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch. As a youth of America, I would suggest that at the exercises of the Liberty Bell the Declaration of Independence be given in the original. The exercises will not be complete without the Declaration. "LIBERTY."

HAYES AT GETTYSBURG.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch. Having noticed in your issue of May 31, in a dispatch from Washington, that tonight's paper on editorial page, that no president since Lincoln spoke at Gettysburg except Roosevelt, I wish to correct you. I was in Gettysburg on May 30, 1878, the day Andrew G. Curtin, ex-governor, called party was the Cray, secretary of war; Charles E. Devers, attorney-general, and Hayes, president of the United States, also spoke. I had the pleasure of shaking hands with him and it also rained. J. C. W. GORDON, 4718 North Twelfth street, St. Louis.

REFINEMENT AND GOOD BREEDING.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch. People who are really refined are not obliged to publish the fact to the world at large, and the world is quick to recognize the true quality of character. I have noticed that people who are truly refined and high bred accept their social position as such as a matter of course; that they never admit the possibility of its being endangered by contact with others, whatever their rank in life. I thank God that my ancestors, for a little while at least, strove for the principles of American industry and equality. I have yet to meet the man or woman who could improve me with their superiority, and this feeling should be the birthright of every American. ONE OF THE EIGHTY MILLION.

WANTS REAL IRISH ART.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch. I see by your paper that the Irish actors from Dublin will not play here because they object to the "American" Irish Paddy. I am not the Fair intended to educate the people? Well, if it is let the visitors see the Irish as they are, an educated Irishman without a brogue is not recognized as such, but is supposed to be Scotch or English. Of course, many people know that the purest English is spoken in Dublin, Ireland, and slang is not used, which is more than can be said about St. Louis. As Paddy is to represent Ireland at the Fair, let me ask how are the other countries represented? Or shall we take it for granted that we do not see typical people? I approve of the position taken by the Irish actors from Dublin. A LOVER OF THE IRISH.

FOR THE NEWSBOYS.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch. I am a "plain, blunt man." 76 years old yesterday, have read, written for and sold the Post-Dispatch, one or all, during its entire existence, up to date. When I today took up the story of Miss Ethel Huston, I in no mean degree realized what wonderfully apt material the modern newspaper has to work upon, and especially what a wonderful auxiliary education has been this Louisiana Purchase World's Fair, but when I came to the "Millionaire Newsboy and His Little Friends" my own ambition and inspiration began to take shape and I thought, "Why might not I, old as I am, one more stroke toward pushing the world along?" I at once wrote to friends whom I knew I could interest in my own town, and shall attempt to accomplish something in that direction. I am at present and have been for several months doing what I have been able toward the building of this wonderful spectacle, the World's Fair—I think, with an ambition to do more than simply earn the pittance I get for my time. Now, should like to get into communication with Mr. J. Eads How, Rev. F. Frederick Bliss, Mr. Leslie Sprague of the American Boy and the officers of "The Newsboys' Association of the United States," the latter with a view of organizing a branch or auxiliary in my own town. BADGE NO. 1174.

BETTER TELEPHONE SERVICE.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch. The answer of "M." to my criticism of telephone service in St. Louis shows that he has had no experience with a better service. I have had the advantage of him. Ever since the telephone was introduced I have been a constant user of it for twelve years in St. Louis, twelve years in another city, and the rest of the time elsewhere. In the other city referred to, the operator who answered a call directed her undivided attention to that call until the party called began talking or she found him could not be "raised." In that case the calling party was promptly notified, generally being asked if he had any further business. If he had, they were promptly and fully carried out. There was manifested a cordial desire to really serve patrons that made relations between company and public exceedingly pleasant. There was seldom, if ever, any display of "whimsical and capricious temper of subscribers" spoken of by "M." Mark the result: That city, with about half the population of St. Louis, had about thirty more telephones in use. So firmly is the company entrenched in the good will of the public that no opposition has ever found either excuse or foothold against it. TELEPHONE SUBSCRIBER.
